Who should attend

This meeting should be of interest to all professionals involved in the initial assessment or management of temporomandibular disorders including consultants and trainees in oral and maxillofacial surgery or oral surgery and general dental or medical practitioners.

Course aim

The course will focus on the basic principles of assessment and management of temporomandibular disorders including updates on the management of myofascial pain and internal derangement. Indications for surgery will be highlighted and active interaction encouraged with panel questioning on basic management techniques and areas of controversy.
